

Dear SOA, ZOA and SOCH

It's been a while since you heard from me, firstly I would like to wish you a good happy health time. I will continue thanking you for the support. It's never been easy to help me from scratch to where I am. Wish you a long life for you to see the seed you have planted grow and bear good fruits.

Moving away from home someone must have a big room to accommodate all the short comers and be flexible enough to change. Learning with people from different countries and culture it's not that easy but staying positive and having an open mind can help create a good environment for everyone to live in.

Living in China is a different story especially the early days. I could only say hello and thanks in Chinese, so buying and talking to Chinese people was very hard. Now learning Chinese opened doors for interaction and easy purchase of supplies. Am also happy that I can now understand, speak and write some Chinese, And am also part of the school football team. Talking about home sick, have not yet had that because most of the times am busy with homeworks and having a boarding school background has helped to stay strong and focused. Basically the my first semester was both amazing that I achieved some goals and challenging looking at the language point of view and am hoping for a good next and last language semester.

Regards

Moses Lesu
